Daphne Iking has done it all; from stand-up to theatre to acting, and now, she is a proud mother of three beautiful children. Daphne gets candid and personal with KL Lifestyle magazine about the joys and challenges of motherhood.

BY HIRANMAYIL AWLI MOHANAN

Rediscovering Motherhood
DAPHNE IKING

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO YOU TO BE A MOTHER?

I have to admit that being a mother has its challenges. Prior to this, I have always focused on my career and left my kids under the care of the nanny. Now that I have taken over the responsibilities as a mother, like I said, it has its challenges. However, it has its wonderful moments because I now know my children better.

WHAT WOULD BE YOUR ADVICE FOR NEW MOTHERS OUT THERE?

My advice is to be prepared because it takes not only your time, but it affects you financially and your relationship with your spouse. You now have to divide your attention with this new little being and your spouse. You tend to forget your relationship with your spouse and most of all, you tend to forget yourself. To all the mothers out there, you must remember to cut yourself a little slack. As much as you want to devote your time to your family, you must spare some time for yourself. I personally found that time by enrolling in a Yoga instructor course so I could practise Yoga at home. That little skill and present to myself is my 'me' time.

HOW DO YOU BALANCE BETWEEN YOUR CAREER AND FAMILY?

I think I am fortunate because my husband is also my manager. He doesn't have a corporate job per se, so I am able to spend time with him almost every day. For instance, if I don't have a nanny, he can look after the kids. My kids have followed me along to photo shoots so they know how to behave. It also helps that my office and studio are at home so I am still able to spend time with them, though there are pros and cons. That's how I am able to have the balance; to be able to see my family even though I am working.

BIGGEST SURPRISES IN MOTHERHOOD?

All the kids were unexpected. That was the surprise. (laughter ensues) I love them to bits but they were all unexpected. I guess it is just God's will. My youngest child, Isidore, was the major surprise because both my husband and I were very careful and yet I got pregnant again. So on the third pregnancy, because of the past two pregnancies, I faced discrimination as a freelance MC and host where they did not want to hire a pregnant mother. The director for that particular gig, worried about me looking fat. That was rather disappointing because that particular show was empowering women.

WHAT DO YOU LOVE ABOUT BEING A MOTHER?

For Easter, we did an Easter bunny egg hunt. My sister started this tradition so I took it upon myself to continue it. This year, I told myself that I would start preparing for Easter early but come Easter morning, I was unprepared. The progression of my children and to be able to share some tradition with my children is very satisfying. It feels nice to love someone other than yourself, naturally, but it is very gratifying.

WHAT LESSON DID YOUR MOTHER TEACH YOU THAT YOU APPLY ON YOUR KIDS?

To be honest with them. My mum is a nurse, so she is very practical and very medical. She did not tell us that babies came from kettles or from stalks. She told it as it is from the very beginning. She told us that she did not ban us from having a boyfriend at a very young age but she did warn us that there was no going back to holding hands once you kissed a boy. She was very straight with us. I was always a party animal; I drank and had a good time but I have always held back when it came to my body. My husband says he wants our kids to stay a virgin until they are 40 years old and find their own money. I told him that he can't stop them, instead, be straight with them. He then asked me whether it worked; well, it worked for me, my sister and my brothers so there must be something right about my mother's lesson. I am campaigning and championing against child sexual crimes so I believe it is vital to know things as they are. For example, when my daughter was two years old, during bath time, we would play 'sabun-sabun' and I would sing her a song to teach her about a girl's private parts to teach her what is right and wrong. We need to protect our kids by being plain honest with them, especially against pedophiles and how sick the world is.

HOW DO YOU SPEND TIME WITH YOUR KIDS?

I spend time with my three children differently. Naturally, I spend more time with the youngest (Isidore) because he still breastfeeds. My middle child (Iman) is amazing, she has the middle child syndrome, very 'kakak' to her younger brother and trying to prove that she is mature. She is very kind and sporting. We do reading together; she is also musically gifted. That's how I spend time with her. My eldest child (Isobel) is pre-teen so she is against public affection, but when we're at home and she sees me being affectionate with her siblings, she wants it too. Isobel is into jokes at the moment so I spend time with her by placing a camera in front of her and asking her to do a stand-up. Isobel's musical inclination bloomed recently so I also play the piano and guitar with her, apart from the stand-up.

IF YOU WERE TO DESCRIBE MOTHERHOOD IN ONE WORD, WHAT WOULD IT BE?

Dedication.

YOUR FAVOURITE MEMORIES WITH YOUR CHILDREN?

I think it was when my father passed away very suddenly from cancer. The kids did not understand cancer, of course but again, I was very real about it. Surprisingly, my mum tried to shield it from them. She told them that my father passed away as his liver was not functioning well because he drank a lot of beer. They sort of absorbed it and when they saw my brothers drinking beer, they would naturally say 'Oh my god they are going to die now because they are drinking beer.' So I sat them down and told them it is not just about drinking beer but it's due to one's lifestyle. They understood the concept of death quite fast but still remained innocent about it. The Kadazan belief is that when you see an animal, there is a deeper meaning behind it and for us, it was the butterfly; we believe it was my father's spirit. There was once when my husband and I were fighting, coincidentally there was a butterfly. Hence, they interpreted it as my father and told us not to fight because Aki (grandfather) wouldn't want us to. I realised then that I underestimated my kids on their grasp of certain matters. That was my favourite memory; to witness how child-like they were, yet so mature in the understanding of certain matters.

WHAT IS YOUR BIGGEST GOAL IN LIFE?

I wouldn't call it a goal per se but I always see my kids being able to complete their education and being very happy with whatever path they choose. For me, I see my husband and I in an organic farm that we have built, surrounded by chickens, and having my own garden. I just want to live in a kampung. That's how I see myself retired, not a goal per se.

HAS ENTERTAINMENT ALWAYS BEEN YOUR PASSION?

I think so. I am a middle child and I was always the clown of the family. I always tried to ease difficult situations by making a joke, just like Isobel. Before going to university, I told my father that I wanted to pursue journalism instead of medicine; he wasn't pleased about that. I told him that USM then, offered the closest thing to journalism, which was 'Broadcasting, Radio, Television and Film'. When my father heard the word film, he was very cross because he thought I would be an actress who doesn't earn her keep. But I assured him that there was a minor paper 'Journalism' during the course. Then I met the late Nigel, who took me in and I became a cabaret dancer to pay off my fees. I also did tutoring and emceeing part time. I was always comfortable entertaining people.

WHAT OR WHOM TRIGGERED YOUR PASSION FOR TV PRESENTING?

When I pursued the degree in Journalism and wanted to prove my dad wrong, I used to listen to Radio 4 in Sabah. Datuk Yasmin Yusuff and Patrick Teoh were the voices of Radio 4 then and I told myself I wanted to be as good as they are. I always wanted to be on par with them and now, it makes me happy that they are my peers. Thus, if I have to pin down persons who inspired my passion, it would be Datuk Yasmin Yusuff and Patrick Teoh.

YOU HAVE A MASTER'S DEGREE IN COMMUNICATIONS FROM USM, PENANG. WHAT INSPIRED IT?

When I finished my degree, I was doing an internship and was offered a management position in a freight forwarding company. My friend came over to Air Itam to see a fortune teller to snag herself a husband. The fortune teller looked at me and told me that I had questions for her and she told me to pose them. So, I told her that I had three choices to make, the first, to be an air stewardess for Emirates (which my father opposed), the second is a job at a freight forwarding company and lastly, to pursue my master's because I was offered a part scholarship. After doing her mumbo jumbo, she chose option three, to pursue my Master's. She explained that halfway through the Masters course, I would be on TV. Coincidentally, the economy at the time was not good so I decided to pursue a Master's degree while juggling an internship at a production house in KL. When I was working in the production house, TV3 called me for an audition to be a journalist for finance.

HOW HAVE YOUR MASTER'S AIDED YOU IN YOUR LINE OF WORK?

I learnt discipline and dedication to finish a thesis. I also learnt in journalism that at the end of the day, whoever is ruling, will govern what is said in the papers. I hope that I won't become jaded in that sense and to write only about the truth.

YOUR PLATFORM IS INFLUENTIAL IN TODAY'S AGE. WHAT ARE YOUR THOUGHTS?

I think that you are absolutely right. I may not have as many followers as other Instagram stars or bigger names but I feel that whatever is posted on the social media does make a huge difference. I am very careful with what I post on Instagram because at the end of the day I want to make sure that my kids read it and is good for them. YouTube was something that we started dabbling with last year. We started vlogging and used my YouTube channel as my platform to talk about certain issues such as the usage of the word 'Allah' (In Sabah everyone uses 'Allah' though not Muslims) and sensitive issues like the LGBT community. Someone came up to me before and said something along the lines of, "What you said about being a Muslim and not wearing a 'tudung' really inspired me to rethink how I should tell my parents that I converted." It dawned on me that my channel could actually help people. I want to influence people to do better.

TELL US ONE THING THAT PEOPLE DON'T KNOW ABOUT YOU.

I did one of those personality tests on Facebook and it proved to be accurate. I may appear loud and very extrovert-like but I am actually an introvert. I may be comfortable talking to you face-to-face like this because in my head I know that this is part of work. If I just met you for the first time, I would still be warm towards you but at the same time, reserved. You may see the loud persona, but I am very shy and reserved and I only have a few friends who know that.

FAVOURITE QUOTES YOU LIVE BY?

"Kind words, kind thoughts, always". You shouldn't look down on other people's weaknesses because these might be their strengths. It is important to kill any bad thought when you see others because you are also flawed.

LASTLY, TELL US ABOUT YOUR ENTERTAINMENT BUCKET LIST.

I have done almost everything from stand-up to acting. There are two things I would like to cross off my entertainment bucket list and they are, writing a book and being a DJ on radio.

SPRING CLEANING YOUR BODY AND MIND

Clutter, Be Gone

BY HIRANMAYII AWLI MOHANAN

When we mention spring cleaning, one conjures up the back-breaking activity of literally cleaning the clutter from the closet, windows, fridge, etc. Here's a thought; let's break away from the clichéd notion of spring cleaning and focus on something vital and essential, such as spring cleaning within; our diet and the mind.

SPRING CLEANING YOUR DIET:

Granted, this maybe a tough one. That being said, we deserve the best and therefore, necessary changes must be made for a 'cleaner' lifestyle.

Be honest about your portions

Let's be honest here. Are you really eating the right amount of food? If you are frequently going for seconds and you have a mountain of rice before you without realising it, you are adding unwanted calories. Here's a tip, if you still feel hungry after eating, try drinking a glass of water and waiting 20 minutes before taking more. Alternatively, you can add more steamed vegetables to your plate so that you are not gobbling down tons more calories per meal.

Make changes gradually

No one says you have to wake up tomorrow and start eating a strictly vegan no-carb diet. Think about the changes you want for your health and shift to them steadily. Each week, incorporate a new good habit while tossing out an old one. Swap your white rice for brown rice for one week. Then see what other changes you can make.

Clean out the fridge and pantry

Those cookies and ice cream have got to go. Limit your shelf or fridge items to things like chicken breasts, brown rice and greens. Give your fridge a good cleaning and toss out the unhealthy. Then, organise it with fresh veggies, fruit, and other healthful snack options such as almonds so when you get the munchies, you will have the perfect cure.

SPRING CLEANING YOUR MIND:

With a healthy state of mind, you will be in the best position to feel truly rejuvenated and reenergised to brace what the world offers.

Make time to play

As adults, we tend to fill our lives with activities that almost always involve some end goal that needs to be achieved, but constantly working towards something to be attained in the future can throw our mental and emotional state out of balance. This is why it's important to make time to play. Play is all about learning and enjoying the present moment without seeking to achieve any specific goal. Pick an activity you know you enjoy, throw any goals out the window and just do it for the love of doing it.

Listen to your favourite music

Research has shown that music can be therapeutic, and trust me, the results can be pretty quick. Whether you could use a super upbeat pick-me-up to get you energised for the day or a soothing escape after a long, hard day, different genres of music have the power to help give you a mood boost or to help you wind down. Even if you only have time to listen to one 3 to 4-minute song, it's worth it if it helps take your mind off things. Try putting a waterproof, Bluetooth speaker in your shower or curating a playlist for your daily commute so you can listen at convenient times of the day.

Do something creative

Being creative doesn't necessarily mean you have to be a contemporary Picasso or Mozart. Creativity is simply a form of self-expression, and getting that out in whatever medium that appeals to you most is a healthy way to express your feelings and energy to the world. The brilliant thing about it is that it doesn't have to be good, it is merely to express yourself while having fun. Examples include dancing at home to the tunes of Bruno Mars, going on an adventure alone or read an intimidating book.

Unplug for at least a full 24 hours

Technology though wonderful, is known to cause physical problems like sleep disorders, "text neck", back pain and more. Try taking a full 24-hour detox from technology to give your mind a break. Maybe you'll like it so much that you'll consider making it a weekly habit.

Remember that you can take advantage of the spring cleaning tips mentioned above at any time. In fact, why don't you make it a regular habit to keep the clutter out of your mind all year round.

MOTHER

ONE PERSON WHO DOES THE WORK OF TWENTY. FOR FREE.

BY CHEE SUE ANNE

When we think of our mum, an image of strength does not come to mind. We underestimate the amount of courage and power that comes with raising a child. It requires one's full spirit, heart, mind and body. So this month is a tribute to all mothers. We take a look at Dr Gary Chapman's five love languages to see all the ways our mothers love us and all the ways we can love them back.

A mother's love for her child is like nothing else in the world. It knows no law, no pity. It dares all things, and crushes down remorselessly all that stands in its path.
— Agatha Christie

GIFT GIVING

Not to be mistaken for materialism, gift givers express their love through... you've guessed it, presents!! If your mum is one who's constantly buying you gifts, you should give her offerings a bit more thought. Her presents convey her sacrifice of time, energy and money to bring you that extra bit of happiness. Mums who are gift givers give with intense thought and effort. So the next time you decide to nonchalantly toss aside a gift from your mum, take time to appreciate the love that comes with it and you will treasure her and her gifts a little bit more. And the best way to give back to a mum that loves through gift giving is to get something for her! It doesn't need to be expensive or extravagant, it truly is the thought behind it that counts. So take time to choose a gift that will bring her the most benefit or joy and she'll definitely be delighted.

QUALITY TIME

This is for the mums who are always there. Nothing says, "I love you", more than full, undivided attention. They are constantly spending time with us, and planning activities to carry out together as a family. To her, these moments are precious. She yearns to sit and talk with you, get to know your day, what you're going through, and always eager to lend an ear. These are the mums who will miss you terribly when you're not there. You don't see the special effort she takes, sacrificing other activities to spend that time with you at your convenience, being on time, and paying you the attention that is her love. So make your mum feel special by spending your precious time with her, doing something you know she'll love and putting away all distractions. Because that's what she truly appreciates and that's what she truly deserves.

WORDS OF AFFIRMATION

If you've grown up with your mum telling you how much she loves you and how special you are to her, your mum loves you with her words. Her words are meaningful. She packs her thoughts and emotions into what she says to you. Her unsolicited compliments are her tiny gifts to you throughout the day. If your mum shows love through words, return the favour in her language. Hearing the words "I love you," and hearing the reasons behind that love will send her spirits skyward. Spend some time showering her with some thoughtful words this Mother's Day. I guarantee that would be, to her, the loveliest present of all!

ACTS OF SERVICE

A predominantly Asian language, mums who love through acts of service don't say much. Instead they do. Sometimes in complete silence. She'll stay up extra late to bake those delicious homemade cookies for you to enjoy the next morning. Vacuuming the house, helping you with your homework, folding your clothes; all these are her expressions of love. So speak her language this Mother's Day and offer your acts of service. Nothing will sound better to your mum than easing her burden and responsibilities with a "Let me do that for you." Your efforts will speak volumes to her of how much you care.

PHYSICAL TOUCH

If you grew up with constant hugs and kisses, your mum expresses her love through touch. Affectionate to the core, the pats on the back, the hand holding and the light touches on your arms and face are all the ways she communicates her excitement, concern, care and love. These mums are just the best when you need comfort and consolation. Mums who speak this language will definitely appreciate it if you return her affection, better still, if you initiate it. Being by her side, and close to her, giving her hugs and cuddles throughout the day; these are all the forms of "I love you" she desires to hear.

All people express love in different manners. Your mum may speak more than one love language, but that's fine, the better to find more ways to love her back with. So this Mother's Day, make that lovely lady in your life feel like you mean the world to her in the language that she understands the best.

Tell us about yourself.

I am an old soul inside who loves travelling and throwing myself into new experiences.

What made you fall in love with your line of work?

Being able to somehow impact and hopefully elevate the quality of media content in Malaysia and also having the option of wearing pajamas to work if I feel like it, because no one can see me on radio.

Tell us a little about your mother.

My mother comes from a family of 17 siblings and is a retired nurse. She is one of the most resilient, hardworking and kindest women I know.

Special dish mum makes and what is it?

It has got to be her Chinese New Year spread - she single-handedly makes five or more dishes such as mushroom stew dish with abalone, a whole steamed chicken, and pig stomach soup and all the trimmings.

What’s your favourite dish by mum?

My mum cooks the meanest fish head curry but to be honest but if I had to choose my last meal on earth, it would be her fried mee hoon, with Thai chilli sauce on the side.

How do you celebrate Mother’s Day with your mum?

My brother and I usually take her out for dinner - all of us love to eat!

Do you cook? Are you cooking for you mum on Mother’s Day?

The extent of my cooking skills is putting a bowl of cereal together for breakfast, so no, I won’t be cooking for her, unfortunately.

Best advice mum has given you?

To help people wherever you can - something she has taught me by example.

What’s one word that describes your personality? And one word for mum’s personality?

Curious (me), Selfless (mum)

How do you spend time with your mother?

It always revolves around food - her making it, me eating it or us going somewhere to eat.

What are your guilty pleasures when it comes to food?

I love baked goodies - cakes and cookies make me weak in the knees.

Favourite Malaysian dishes?

Sambal petai, banana leaf rice and anything crab-related, especially Marmite spread or salted egg crabs.

What do you do to unwind?

To unwind, I go for a massage or I just curl up to a good TV series.

How do you stay fit?

I try to do short HIIT (high-intensity interval training) routines at least three times a week, first thing in the morning.

And finally, what are your aspirations in life?

I aspire to never give up on achieving my goals, to constantly improve as a human being and to be the best version of myself.

DELICIOUS

D. is for Dining at Delicious

BY HIRANMAYI AWLI MOHANAN

Delicious, One Utama recently underwent a facelift and is now back with a vengeance. The interior of this establishment oozes simplicity and elegance. It reminds us of a classic English eatery that offers a fusion of Western and Asian cuisines. But above all, they offer a plethora of dishes that are not only visually appealing, but gives a delectable jolt to your taste buds. One can notice that heaps of thought have gone into making this a culinary destination for people from all walks of life to have a great time. The minute details such as the inspired batik prints that adorn the walls and the menu, as well as the recycled elements such as old biscuit tins and the lamps are the tipping point that makes Delicious One Utama a haven for comfort food.

One in a Melon Salad

Baby, you are One in a Melon; this was the thought that played on our minds as soon as we caught sight of it, making its way to our table. This felicitous and inventive dish made for a splendid appetizer. The combination of lemon dressing, arugula, feta cheese, olives, mint, basil, pine nuts, balsamic pearls, basil oil, yoghurt ravioli and of course, watermelon was a show stealer to say the least. As easy as the dish was on the eyes, so was it in our appeasing our tummies.

Sawaduckka Salad

This salad comprises pomelo flesh, shredded duck confit meat, cucumber, tomato julienne, mint, Thai basil, basil, spring onions, red chillies and sesame seeds with Thai dressing. If I am being honest, duck is not my favourite meat. That being said, this salad surprised us in more ways than one. Its richness in piquancy reminded us of the delights of a traditional Thai salad with a contemporary twist, thus its name, Sawaduckka Salad. A witty and creative word play.

Duck Confit for a King Spaghetti

This dish is worth every calorie. It is basically spaghetti tossed with olive oil, garlic, onions, spinach, sundried tomatoes, duck confit and topped off with coriander. Do not let its humble appearance fool you. It packs a palatable punch that will knock you off your seat. We devoured this dish as soon as it arrived, leaving behind a shiny, clean plate.

Chef Tim's Damn Good Mee Goreng Mamak

One might have dreams about this dish. This mee goreng mamak is indubitably damn good. It made us reminisce of the food, especially the mee goreng in Penang. To put it plainly, Delicious's rendition of mee goreng mamak can certainly give many 'mamaks' out there a run for their money.

Sea Bass Under Wraps

We thoroughly enjoyed this dish. The fish was as fresh as day and cooked to perfection. Upon taking a bite, it just melted in our mouth, exuding a savoury aftertaste of lemon. The combination of the local seabass fillet, candied lemon, capers, olives, sundried tomatoes, potatoes, carrots, thyme and oil complemented each other, resulting in a dish that will forever be etched to your memories.

Movie Date Popcorn

A small disclaimer; we love popcorns! Actually, love is an understatement to how much popcorns mean to us. Thus, it is only natural that we are picky about the popcorns we consume. It came as a surprise to us that we fell in love with the Movie Date Popcorn almost immediately. It was served warm, the aroma of the caramel teased our nostrils and its crunchy texture won us over.

Panna Kota Kinabalu

The tale of the Panna Kota Kinabalu was a mysterious one to us. We could not place our finger on the familiar sweet taste that filled the panna Kota. Turned out, this dessert is a traditional twist of a local drink, Bandung. No wonder it seemed so familiar in taste. It was served alongside vanilla ice cream and gelatine that brought us down memory lane to our childhood.

Choc-A-Block Lava Cake

There is always room for dessert though you are stuffed and what better way to end your gastronomic journey on a sweet note than ordering a Choc-A-Block Lava Cake. Digging into the cake will reveal its signature warm oozy centre, served with vanilla ice cream. The epitome of comfort food in our opinion.

The Fish Bowl

Bringing healthy back, in a Poke bowl.

BY CHEE SUE ANNE

Shoyu Salmon

A trip to Singapore and spotting the poké culture there, was what sparked the birth of the first poké café in Malaysia. Nestled neatly in the heart of Bandar Sunway, is The Fish Bowl, with its bright and minimalistic interior design, hitting us hard with the first wave of the poké.

Stemming from Hawaiian roots, poké (pronounced poh-kay) means “chunk” in Hawaiian. It began as a fisherman’s food, where they used to season the cut-offs from their catch to serve as a snack. Typically, poké is composed of any meat or seafood cut into small chunks and marinated, the staple being cubes of raw ahi tuna, tossed with green and white onions, sesame oil and soy sauce. Traditional poké seasonings have been heavily influenced by Japanese and other Asian cuisines during Japan’s invasion of Hawaii during the Second World War.

Today, The Fish Bowl strives to provide a healthy and well balanced meal, all in one bowl. This guilt-free indulgence is both a treat and clean fuel for the body. A creative twist of the salad, poké is perfect for the wellness enthusiasts out there, craving for a fun alternative to a healthy meal.

With natural ingredients prepared daily, warm rice and fresh cool toppings, a Poké Bowl here will primarily have these three components: carbohydrates, in the form of brown or Japanese white rice; protein, from a selection of salmon, tuna, shrimp and chicken; and fibres, joining the mix to provide all the vitamins your body needs, as well as to brighten up the bowl.

Once set up with all the different ingredients, the poké bowl will be a visually stunning food ensemble that avid Instagrammers will fall in love with.

After you’re done with all the picture taking, time to mix the entire ensemble before you take that delicious bite! The rice, the meat and the side vegetables will dance together harmoniously in your mouth, creating a burst of flavour that’ll leave you wanting more.

Shoyu Salmon is the bestseller here, and it’s easy to see why. The Norwegian salmon served is immensely tender, a delectable treat to the taste buds. The Fish Bowl’s rendition of sashimi is truly satisfying, that you can’t help but want seconds.

Kaffir Lime Salmon is salmon soaked in kaffir lime juice. Giving the meat added zest, the citrus adds body and flavour to the meat that you’ll be sure to appreciate.

Our personal favourite poké bowl, however, was the Spicy Serracha Salmon. Deliciously coated with serracha hot sauce, this condiment coupled with the sprinkled chilli flakes, gave the succulent salmon meat a spicy, playful kick.

The tuna here is served with Shoyu and you can opt for it to be spicy. Brought in from Japan, the meat here is soft and juicy, fresh and only slightly marinated so you can savour the natural luscious flavour of the fish.

The sides make the whole meal a little more fascinating. Matching the ingredients to the fish is like pairing food and wine together to produce a harmonious flavour. Pineapple cubes add extra sweetness to the dish while almonds and the fried shallots pack a crunch. Pickled ginger and radish create a fun twist to the taste of the rice and the meat, while the ebiko and wasabi infuse a little bit more of a Japanese character. So feel free to mix and match! It’s all part of the dining experience at The Fish Bowl.

A standard-sized bowl, at RM 17.90 is definitely enough to fill you up. But if you need more, upsize it for an additional RM6.

After the overwhelmingly positive response from the crowd in Sunway, The Fish Bowl launched their second store in One Utama last month. Also, in celebration of Ramadhan, they are launching a Nasi Kerabu inspired poké to commemorate the occasion. So if you’re looking for a delightful meal that your Instagram followers and your tummy will thank you for, head over to The Fish Bowl at One Utama, to pamper yourself with that great food that comes with zero regret.

Shangri La's LEMON GARDEN SEAFOOD BUFFET

Out of the sea, and into me!

BY CHEE SUE ANNE

Just like a pearl needs time and pressure to produce perfection, Lemon Garden at Shangri La Hotel, Kuala Lumpur has come a long way in creating a tantalising experience out of their seafood buffet.

Walk right into Lemon Garden by Shangri La's lobby and you'll be immediately transported into an elegantly decked space, with sophisticated contemporary designs by Japan's Bond Design Studio Inc, complete with warm cosy lighting for that perfect gastronomic experience.

Already backed by many loyal patrons, it's easy to see the allure of Shangri La's Lemon Garden seafood buffet. It has live theatre kitchens showcasing the food preparation by talented chefs, a remarkable plethora of international cuisines, and of course, the abundance of fresh seafood that will leave you spoilt for choice.

Hosting a repertoire of fresh delicacies, the seafood selection at Lemon Garden is definitely top class.

Keep an eye out for the Alaskan crabs, yabbies, Australian lobsters, scallops, Japanese clams, sashimi and oysters shipped in from the US the very day of the buffet itself. Fresh prawns in shades of vermillion laze away on the ice, sweet and juicy, a delectable treat. The Australian Spanner crabs are another catch. Cut, boiled, then flavoured with lemon and salt, this critter's natural sweetness stood out from the rest. Another must-try is the Norwegian smoked salmon. Immensely fresh, it's luscious, velvety texture was positively mouth-watering.

Looking for an oriental touch to go with that smorgasbord of seafood indulgence? The Chinese section proudly fronts its exclusive and highly sought-after Double Boiled Black Chicken with Ginseng Soup. The culinary team of Lemon Garden is the originator of the sui generis preparation of this broth, where the soup is first boiled in individual tiny clay bowls, and then transferred into a huge clay pot and boiled the second time. The result is an aromatic, sweet and flavourful concoction, so good that people stand in line for it, hoping to grab a bowl when the gong announcing the soup's arrival is sounded from the kitchen.

Another spotlight-worthy dish is the Nyonya Curry Laksa. Prepared by a chef at its interactive station, this traditional dish sports a delicious gravy that sinks all its rich flavour into the noodles and ingredients of your choice; you cannot help but devour.

The satay at the Malay theatre kitchen is a toothsome morsel of meat. Soaked in sumptuous gravy, infusing the already savoury grilled meat with a nutty note, this meat on a stick is a real treat to the taste buds.

Over at the Western counter, the Grouper Papillote dominates the scene. Baked with vegetables and wrapped with foil, the fish's natural oils ooze out, cooking and flavouring the fish in the heat, creating a sweet and appetising dish you'll find hard to leave off your plate.

The stylishly designed dessert pavilion features a decadent display of local and international desserts such as the Coconut Pandan Hot Soufflé, ais kacang, waffles, crepes, chocolate fountains and an assortment of cakes, tarts and ice creams. One of Lemon Garden's specialties, the Durian Cake, brings the fruit beloved by Malaysians to a new level. A light and smooth base, the delicious durian-flavoured creamy peaks emulating the thorns of the actual fruit make these bite-sized guilty pleasures an unforgettable treat.

Shangri La's Lemon Garden Seafood Buffet. A resplendent spread of lavish cuisines, fresh seafood and tempting desserts. Only served on Fridays and Saturdays from 6.30pm-10.30pm, come enjoy this taste of opulence at RM208 nett per person (RM104 nett per child) for a night your taste buds will never forget.

For that special day with your mum, treat her to a Sunday Brunch Buffet on the 14th of May at RM168 per person. If you can't make it on that one day, there is a month long Afternoon Tea promotion running for RM90. Spoil your mum with Shangri La's gastronomical goodness. She'll be sure to thank you for it.

BOWERY METRO

A Bowery Minute

Menara Hap Seng 2, Jalan Tengah, 50450 Kuala Lumpur.

BY HIRANMAYII AWLI MOHANAN

Care to be transported to the city where dreams are made of? What if we tell you that you can? Snuggled under the roof of Menara Hap Seng and in the heart of the golden triangle is a relatively new kid on the block. Bowery Metro lets you travel to the big apple through unconventional transportation; their food. This eatery is inspired by the culinary wonders of New York city, where concrete jungles are made of (cue to Alicia Keys's New York song). The etymology of 'bowery' traces back to a section of lower Manhattan, in New York city. The menu in this restaurant mimics the melting pot of cuisines that New York city offers, but incorporating a Malaysian palate.

What I love about Bowery Metro's interior is its simplicity. The unique paintings that embellish the walls and the scattered-like tables and chairs emanate a sense of cheerfulness and comfort. The reason this eatery is located in the middle of bustling Kuala Lumpur is to cater to the white-collared demographic. In that respect, it is open as early as 8 am for you to get a fresh, hot cuppa and a bagel to go. For lunch, it has special set lunches that is value for money and delectable too.

The best part of Bowery Metro is the fact that most of their food here are homemade, down to the bread and fries. Bowery Metro's tag line is break the monotony and with good reason. The people behind Bowery Metro aim to break the monotony that it is a place to visit only when one receives their salary. To put it simply, it is an affordable restaurant that serves good food.

New York Hot Dog

The hot dog is a New York city staple street food. So it is only natural that Bowery Metro serves its own rendition of the renowned dish. Its New York Hot Dog comprises a jumbo-sized chicken bratwurst sausage, enveloped by caramelised onions and topped off with a drizzle of truffle hot sauce. It is served alongside a heap of homemade fries. I was pleasantly surprised to find greens in the hot dog such as purple cabbage, carrots and lettuce; a healthy addition to the gluttony.

Roasted Tomato Soup

The aroma of the Roasted Tomato Soup reached my nostrils before it reached the table. The make of a good tomato soup is all in the quality of the tomatoes and the process of slow-cooking the tomatoes to result in a thick, juicy broth. Bowery's

Roasted Tomato Soup was impeccable in taste. It had a rich tomato base and a tinge of flavour from the basil. This dish is served with a side of homemade and freshly baked garlic Focaccia bread. The Roasted Tomato Soup should be consumed while it is still warm and you should dip the bread in the soup to truly experience this dish.

Softshell Crab Tempura Brioche Burger

If I could live with a burger forever, this would be it. The homemade buns were firm on the outside yet soft on the inside, playing well with the soft shell crab. It was like biting into a well-worth, crispy guilty pleasure. The cherry on the ice cream (in this case, the soft shell crab) was the guacamole and tartare sauce. You can taste that fresh avocados were used to make the guacamole. I certainly did not pay heed to the amount of calories because believe me, it is worth every single bite.

Buttermilk Pancakes

Pancakes in my opinion are little drops of heaven on a plate. Bowery Metro met my pancake expectations because I am always in search of good pancakes. The presentation of the Buttermilk Pancake won me over as soon as I laid eyes on it. Three layers of pancake stood proudly, garnished by a generous drizzle of not only maple syrup, but caramel too. On top of the pancakes perched a big spoonful of cream cheese and lastly, bountiful blueberries scattered all over the pancake. My oh my, I am proud to say that I was personally responsible for demolishing the majority of the pancake.

Variants of ROTI CANAI

Comfort food around every corner

Ahh roti... Malaysia's ultimate comfort food. This Malaysian staple dish gets full marks across the board for its delectable flavour when accompanied by curry. The roti is so versatile that you can consume it at any time of the day, with any curry and it is still delicious. Not only is it a delicacy, it is fun to watch the process of making it too, especially when the anneh flips the dough in the air. It is a feast for the eyes and palate.

BY HIRANMAYI AWLI MOHANAN

Roti Kosong

It all began with this bad boy. Our favourite way of eating 'roti kosong'? Well, firstly, it should be eaten while it's warm and the texture of the roti should be 'garing' (crispy). Finally, flood the roti canai with dhal curry and add a hint of chicken curry too. Alternatively, you can dip into sambal. Many love the dhal-sambal combo to accompany roti kosong. Let's be honest, everything pairs well with this dish. It's the perfect breakfast or tea-time dish.

Valentine Roti, Stor No. 1, Jalan Semarak, opposite Menara Celcom, 54000 Kuala Lumpur.

Roti Telur Bawang

The ingredients of this roti variant is self-explanatory. It is basically eggs and onions folded into the roti canai. You would think that the onions will overpower the dish with its strong and spicy flavour but believe us when we say that you will be surprised. The egg and onions blend so well that they neutralises each other's overpowering flavours, resulting in a dish that is equivalent to a big-warm hug.

Roti Pisang

Everyone is an artist in his or her own manner. We believe that the creative genius behind the 'Roti Pisang' is an artist. Only an artist could have envisioned that a fruit goes harmoniously with a type of bread. Boy oh boy, the outcome is sweet and it just melts in the mouth. It should be eaten alone to truly appreciate its taste and form.

Nasi Kandar Pelita No. 1, Jalan SS 2/64, SS 2, 47300 Petaling Jaya, Selangor.

Roti Telur Fujima

It is essentially a fancier roti pisang that is topped off with two scoops of corn-flavoured ice cream. This dish reminds us of Katy Perry's 'Hot and Cold' song because it is exactly that, a mixture of hot and cold.

Restaurant Murni Discovery, 53, Jalan SS 2/75, SS 2, 47300 Petaling Jaya, Selangor.

Roti Tissue

A personal favourite, this dish is as tall as it is big. Every time someone orders this at the mamak eatery, eyes widen in awe and heads turn to find out which table is it dancing its way to. It is presented in a paper-thin swirl that resembles a pointy hat. This scrumptious goodness is served with condensed milk. You can opt to drizzle it down the roti itself too if you are feeling adventurous.

Original Penang Kayu Nasi Kandar No. 64, Jalan SS 2/10, SS 2, 47300 Petaling Jaya, Selangor.

Roti Jepun

This is new to our roti dictionary. Don't bother counting the calories that go into this roti because its piquancy certainly overshadows it. Roti Jepun is made of eggs, cheese, margarine and condensed milk (the make of best-tasting meals). You can expect a blend of creamy and savoury flavours.

GULAB JAMUN MILKSHAKE AND COCO LOCO MILKSHAKE @ THE MILKSHAKE FACTORY

If you visit Nu Sentral often, especially for movies, the Milkshake Factory should be a stop. Not only is it conveniently located on the same floor as the cinema, but it offers a range of milky way in a cup. We tried the curious case of the Gulab Jamun milkshake. Gulab Jamun is a milk-solid-based Indian dessert. The jury is out on the milkshake and we love it! We love how distinct and creative it is compared to other milkshakes out there. The Coco Loco is also a favourite for its delicious blend of coconut and Snickers chocolate.

THE ORIGINAL VANILLA AND LIÉGE CLASSIC MILKSHAKES @ WAFFLEMEISTER

The epitome of a perfect milkshake takes its form at the unsuspecting doors of Wafflemeister. Their glasses of milkshakes here are simply divine. We were lost for words when we tried their best sellers, The Original Vanilla Milkshake and the Liège Classic. The Original Vanilla was fresh and rich with a tad bit of frothy texture. Its simplicity and perfect proportions of cream and sweetness was enough to make us moan with satisfaction. The Liège Classic was definitely sui generis. This one-of-a-kind milkshake has Wafflemeister's exclusive liège waffles blended into the milky goodness. The tiny chunks of waffle swimming in the milkshake spiked the entire ensemble up, giving us bite-sized surprises that were delightfully crunchy and chewy at the same time. Don't forget to scoop up a taste of their fresh, homemade whipped cream. Feels almost like soft clouds melting in your mouth. A heavenly treat so good, you won't even feel the guilt after.

PS150

Explore one of the most fascinating bars in Chinatown.

BY CHEE SUE ANNE

150, Jalan Petaling, 50000 Kuala Lumpur
Tel: +603 20222888
Open: Mondays to Saturdays
(6pm – 2am), Sundays (2pm – 10pm)

Emanating a contemporary fusion of east-meets-west, PS150 presents an intoxicating journey for those who venture through its many doors. Inspired by the history of bar evolution from pre-prohibition to the Tiki era, PS150 presents a predominantly south-east Asian vibe with a raw and rusty element, revealing a fascinating story to visitors who enter its premises.

EMBARK ON THE JOURNEY PS150 HAS TO OFFER

PS 150 carefully crafts out a trip snaking through the bar designed to encourage visitors to reminisce about their past. A hidden bar, its entrance camouflaged as a 1960s toy shop, your journey begins here. The childhood toy action figures, dolls and educational posters evoke nostalgia of our primary school years. Back to a time when we would run around in our navy blue uniforms playing tag during those forty minutes of recess.

When you swing open the door to enter PS150, you'll be greeted with the abrupt darkness of an empty room. Adorned with just a cracked mirror and a bare mannequin, the aura of the room reflects our adolescent years of uncertainty and self-discovery. Continue on and you'll walk into the Opium Den inspired by the pre-prohibition era; a narrow hallway exuding a mysterious vibe, complete with oriental hanging beads and high-backed private chairs. The smell of cigarette smoke will cling to you as you precariously venture to the end of the corridor, to enter the bar's next phase; young adulthood.

Open the next door and be welcomed by an abundance of natural light and fresh air! You're now standing in the Tiki era-inspired Courtyard section of PS150. Gone are the dim, smoky and confusing days of juvenescence! You've made it, and live to tell the tale. Life is clearer, brighter. So head on over to The Bar, behind door number four, the setting for your 30s, modelled after the Contemporary Era. It's where old meets new and we're comfortable in our own skin. This is where life happens. Time to grab that drink, acknowledge our past and look forward eagerly to what the future holds.

SOUTH-EAST ASIAN COCKTAILS WITH A MODERN TWIST

PS 150 has created its own unique collection of cocktails, with a contemporary edge. Stand by the bar and watch as skilful bartenders dish out their creations. Borrowing the elements of generic cocktails and creating its own concoctions, PS 150 prides itself on its own editions of top sellers; Lychee No. 3, Salty Chinaman and Asam BoiRita. But we took a closer look at three of their unsung heroes.

The Trippity Trip fully encapsulates the vibe of PS150, creating an experience that'll bemuse visitors to this unusual enclave. This

PS150 Drinks with Signature Popiah

Mezcal-based drink will conjure up different layers of flavour in your mouth, giving you a truly enjoyable trip.

The Jungle Bird at PS 150 is a distinctive edition of this first ever Malaysian cocktail. White rum infused with pandan and dried spices, and its combination with Campari and gula Melaka all play a part in making this delightfully tropical mix come alive. This tuak twist is definitely a find at PS150. The OuuHaa Gimlet takes the traditional Borneo rice wine to the next level, blending seamlessly with the gin and the lime, leaving a pleasant citrus aftertaste.

All cocktails are priced affordably at RM40 nett, and with a portion of the drinks using local ingredients, there's something here for everyone. In terms of setting, there are both indoor and outdoor smoking areas, as well as an indoor non-smoking one.

Don't miss out on the short eats here: The PS150 signature popiah. These bite-size snacks pack a punch. Crispy coating with succulent fillings, there is an array of flavours to try, with dessert popiah launching in May! Try out the new ketayap popiah and peanut popiah when you're there.

So, if you're out on a Friday night in KL, looking for a place that provides more than just drinks, but also a creative atmosphere and top-notch customer service, make an adventure out of your drinking experience by swinging by PS 150. Its texture, sights, sounds, smells, and tastes will stimulate your senses like none other.

SALON DE COIFFURE

Add some colour to your life (and hair)

BY HIRANMAYII AWLI MOHANAN

Male or female, hair is an extension of one’s personality and identity. Thus, we are bound to yearn for a fitting salon that can accommodate our hair aspirations, whatever that may be. That salon for me is Daisuke Salon de Coiffure.

Diving into a little history behind this salon’s namesake, coiffure derives from the French verb ‘coiffer’, which can mean “to arrange (hair)” or “to cover with a coif (any of various close-fitting caps, such as that worn under a veil by a nun).” The word is now used as a somewhat fancy way of saying “hairdo”.

Daisuke salon was established all those years ago due to Daisuke Suzuki’s (owner) passion for hairstyling and the hairdressing segment. An experienced stylist himself, he wanted a place to unleash his passion and to magnify our beautiful, God-given hair. The interior of this establishment is vast, surrounded by massive mirrors and brick-adorned walls, giving you an insight to the transformation going on. Let’s be honest, it is the ultimate setting for the perfect Instagram shot. I appreciate the usage of white curtains as partitions between the salon chairs, exuding an organic feel to the salon.

The two leading ladies apart from the co-owner, are senior hair stylists Amanda and Renee. They are well-versed with everything to do with hair. Amanda and Renee are able to impart their wisdom on your hair with merely one look. They are able to envision a hairstyle that would complement the shape of your face and your features. I was in admiration of their skills to be able to transform an individual (mostly myself) and to revolutionise one’s hair to a chic, contemporary glamour. Talk about a confidence booster. So ladies and gentlemen, if you want a change of pace or a different bounce to your hair, just walk over to Daisuke for a convivial transformation you will love.

C-25-01, 3 Two Square, No. 2, Jalan 19/1, 46300 Petaling Jaya

After what seemed like days at the salon, the result blew me away. It felt as if I was staring at a different person in the mirror. My hair was significantly shorter and fell strategically around my face. The colour of my hair was the highlight (pun intended). The highlight of soft purple and ash brown was a perfect interfusion of colours. I would have never envisioned myself looking like this. The best thing is, I now carry my hair like an accessory along with a significantly heightened confidence.

While most salons do offer Japanese perm, Daisuke salon is equipped with the proper techniques needed to make perfect perms. The stylists in this establishment are continuously trained by a Japanese stylist (Daisuke Suzuki) on the latest techniques, styles and fashion. They offer digital perm and creep perm. While digital is more common, creep is fairly new to the perm game. Far from being creepy, creep perm offers perming services but in the most natural way possible.

Creep perm is different from a digital perm which uses intense amount of heat in order to get perfect neat curls like what we seen on those red carpet celebrities or magazine models. That being said, what is not known is that having frequent heated perm is not good for the hair in the long run. Meanwhile, creep perm uses cold method (Watering Perm Lotion) to set the curls. It is a relatively safer option to create natural-looking waves or curls without using high heat. Those of you who have very fine hair texture are recommend to try this service in order to add some volume to your tresses.

Apart from the usual suspects of hair colouring and perming, they also offer a plethora of hair treatments, their bestseller being the Brazilian Keratin Treatment. To put it simply, this treatment is designed for those who suffer from frizzy hair. The keratin in the treatment is known to shorten your blow dry time and tame the frizz, making it more manageable on a daily basis. Lion’s mane, no more. If you suffer from hair loss, worry not because Daisuke salon has you on their thoughts. The Zoumou hair extension does wonders to cover up bald spots and the thinning of one’s hair.

YOUR HAIR CAN BE.”

PLATELET-RICH PLASMA FACIAL (PRP)

We at KL Lifestyle gave this treatment a try. Also known as the 'vampire facial' made popular by Kim Kardashian, PRP is a way to rejuvenate your skin, giving back your face that natural glow. This procedure sounds rather alarming at first, what with needing to extract some blood from the patient to begin the treatment. But rest assured, it does not look, or feel, as bad as it sounds. The blood taken will be placed in a centrifuge to separate the plasma from the red and white blood cells. And this concentrated plasma, rich in platelets containing an abundance of growth factors, is then injected into the face using micro needles. Don't worry, numbing cream will be applied to your face beforehand so you won't be in pain. What the micro-needling does, is that it creates tiny punctures in the skin's top layer. This 'controlled injury' triggers the body to create new collagen and elastin, a key part of our skin that begins to reduce as we age. This micro-needling, coupled with the growth factor rich plasma stimulates our own skin's healing powers that will translate into healthier skin. So if you're looking to reduce those pigmentations, scars and fine lines, have a natural face lift and even out that skin tone, come to KL Sky Clinic and the doctors here will carry out this procedure for you safely and effectively. What's more, there'll be a 50% off all skin procedures during the Ramadhan period. Great time to pretty yourself up!

IV VITAMIN COCKTAILS

Often times, only 15% of the nutrients in the food we eat gets absorbed by our bodies. So it's no surprise that we lack certain nutrients, and that shows itself in certain symptoms, like fatigue, hair fall, dull skin and falling sick easily. Fortunately, there is now a way to introduce water soluble vitamins and minerals directly into the bloodstream for maximum absorption. Through an intravenous (IV) vitamin drip. This treatment allows the nutrients to reach your body instantly, at a cellular level, to maintain optimum wellness. At The KL Sky Clinic, there are a range of multivitamin 'cocktails' whose contents vary according to the needs. It could have an array of benefits from improved skin tone and energy levels, to remedial ones like a boost to the immune system and slowing down of the ageing process, all the way to being a natural alternative to post-cancer treatment. Contact the doctors here to find out the right 'cocktail' for you.

Trusted advisor in travel medicine

A PERSONAL SWAT TEAM OF DOCTORS

Currently the only clinic in Malaysia that delivers doctors to your doorstep, The KL Sky Clinic currently gives 24-hour hotel visitation service to all 4 and 5-star hotels around the Klang Valley and including Petaling Jaya. You can contact them through your hotel's concierge, and in no time, very capable doctors will arrive at your room, armed with their extensive medical kit, to tend to your emergency.

TRAVEL WORRY-FREE!

For the adventurers out there, before your next trip, head on over to The KL Sky Clinic. They will provide you the A to Zs on how to get your body ready for the country you're about to visit. You will be receiving all the pre- and post-travel preventive care necessary. The doctors here will provide consultation on which vaccines to take, perform a health screen pre- and post-travel, and advise you on any medication to take with you on your trip. That way, you can take on that adventure full force and with minimal health risk. Not just for avid travellers, this service provided is extremely worthwhile for those going on business trips as well as on religious pilgrimages. Know how to avoid a bug, and what to do if you do catch one.

"Prevention is better than cure" is the mantra at The KL Sky Clinic. Even if you are not sick, it does not mean that you're completely healthy. Health is a scale that you should constantly keep in check. So give your body that care and attention it deserves so that it will be able to take you through the roughest of times, unharmed. You can do so with competent guidance from the doctors at The KL Sky Clinic, a health haven of the modern age.

Bring that SPARKLE Back

Learn to care for your precious vision

CHEE SUE ANNE

Seeing is so paramount in our lives that it requires about half the brain to get involved, so much so, that out of all the muscles in our body, the muscles that control our eyes are the most active.

Sight itself is such a powerful sense. It collects the highest amount of information compared to the rest of the senses. Undoubtedly one of the most crucial features in our body, but we spend an insignificant amount of time caring for it. So here are some ways you can start looking after those gorgeous browns.

1. EAT WELL

There's no running away from this. Good eye health starts with the food on your plate because your eyes need nutrients to heal and repair themselves. Age-related vision problems like macular degeneration and cataracts can be warded off with nutrients like omega-3 fatty acids, lutein, zinc, and vitamins C and E. So fill your plate with:

- Green leafy vegetables (spinach, kale and collards)
- Salmon, tuna and other oily fish
- Eggs, nuts, beans and other non-meat protein sources
- Oranges and other citrus fruits or juices
- Oysters and pork

A well-balanced diet also lowers your odds of developing type 2 diabetes, which is the leading cause of blindness in adults.

2. QUIT SMOKING

If you smoke, your chances of getting cataracts, damage to your optic nerve, and macular degeneration significantly increases. So, make your eyes another reason for you to call it quits. If you've tried to kick the habit only to start again, keep at it. The more times you try to quit, the higher your chances are of succeeding.

3. WEAR SUNGLASSES

Too much exposure to the sun's UV rays will increase your risk of developing cataracts and macular degeneration. Not to worry, you can easily prevent it. With sunglasses! The right pair of shades which blocks 99% to 100% of UVA and UVB rays will delay the development of cataracts, since direct sunlight hastens their formation. If you want to protect the delicate skin around your eyelids to prevent wrinkles and skin cancer, sunglasses help.

4. LOOK AWAY FROM THE COMPUTER SCREEN

In this day and age, we can't help but be glued to our screens. It can be work, or browsing through interesting content, we all spend a substantial amount of time on our gadgets. And there are without a doubt, some side effects. Eyestrain, blurry vision, dry eyes and headaches to name a few. To reduce the strain we put on our eyes, blink more when you're using a screen. And stop work every 20 minutes to look at an object 20 feet away for 20 seconds. Our tech is here to stay but not at the expense of our vision. So take care of those windows to your soul before it's too late!

5. VISIT YOUR EYE DOCTOR REGULARLY

We cannot stress the importance of this. Many eye diseases, like glaucoma, are non-symptomatic and if spotted early on, are way easier to treat. This is especially the case for those 40 years and above. That's when age-related eye diseases start to kick in and if identified early would save your precious vision. One important thing to note about eye diseases is that they are closely linked to genetics. So if someone in your family has an eye disease, get regular check-ups to have early prevention.

6. CONTACT LENS CARE

If you wear contact lenses, hygiene is of utmost importance! Follow strictly your doctor's instructions because you do not want to know what it's like to have an eye infection. Don't sleep with contacts that are not approved for overnight wear, use the correct cleaning solutions, and ensure that all the products you use are not expired. All this for the sake of preventing corneal ulcers, severe pain and even vision loss.

Your eyes are priceless. Not just because they constantly feed you information to keep you safe, they are also your connection to the outside world. They convey your genuine emotions to help you bond with others. So take care of your valuable vision and it will take care of you

AIRPORT TALK

Formerly the CEO of the Multimedia Development Corporation of Malaysia (MDeC), where he helped spearhead the development of the National ICT Initiatives for Malaysia, Managing Director of Malaysia Airports Holdings Berhad, Datuk Badlisham Gbazali has gained considerable recognition in the global aviation world. A speaker at the World Routes Strategy Summit in Chicago in 2014 and the Global Airport Development Conference in 2015 and 2016, he is also a Director of Airports Council International Asia-Pacific.

This month, Datuk Badlisham shares some thoughts about one of the world's first Digital Free Trade Zones.

AIRPORT MD SPEAKS

"Are you among the avid cyber-shoppers who just love to shop till you drop? As a lady once explained, "It's so convenient and so much fun! Just a click and I have things delivered to my doorstep!" Or are you simply one of the growing number of people who use your computer to do your banking, grab a cab, or order a meal? Alternatively, you could be a smart new entrepreneur selling products on the Internet!"

"Whatever your awareness of e-commerce, did you know that Malaysia Airports figured prominently when our Prime Minister Dato' Sri Mohd Najib Tun Abdul Razak recently launched the world's first Digital Free Trade Zone (DFTZ) outside of China? It's true! At the event, Malaysia Airports signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with Cainiao Network to explore the potential for developing a regional e-commerce and logistics hub in KLIA Aeropolis.

"Under the MoU, we'll jointly explore the establishment of a regional e-commerce and logistics hub in KLIA Aeropolis to cater to the business-to-consumer (B2C) and business-to-business (B2B) segments. Among the proposed co-operations, Cainiao and Lazada will lead other Alibaba's subsidiaries and affiliates to work with Malaysia Airports for the development of the e-fulfillment hub. I can almost see many eyes light up at the mention these names, because you know that they mean great value shopping and possible great business opportunities for you as well!"

"I'm really happy that KLIA Aeropolis has been selected to be the site of the initial phase for this exciting and innovative DFTZ. Our aspiration is to position KLIA Aeropolis as the regional e-commerce Hub anchored by global e-commerce leaders such as Alibaba. We hope this will unlock the value of the South East Asia's e-commerce market, and make buying and selling easier for people all across the region – and this includes you, too!"

MARKETING OUTREACH AT OKINAWA

Malaysia Airports communicates key messages at Routes Asia 2017

With 2017 being its 15th year, Routes Asia brought together airlines, airports, tourism authorities and governments to plan new flights and increase existing services. Over 930 route-development professionals from 110 airlines, 170 airports and 20 tourism authorities attended this year's event at Okinawa Convention Centre. The Okinawa Prefectural Government and Okinawa Convention & Visitors Bureau hosted the Routes Asia 2017 aviation conference over three days.

Noting that it was the first time Routes Asia has ever taken place in Japan, Takeshi Onaga, Governor, Okinawa Prefectural Government said: "As the host of Routes Asia 2017, Okinawa Prefecture is excited and proud to show our guests around these beautiful islands, and showcase Okinawa as a world-class destination." Steven Small, brand director of Routes, said: "Being the first year that Routes Asia is held in Japan, 2017 is an exciting landmark for us. The event will help Okinawa Prefecture to reach its target of 10 million tourists a year by 2021."

The conference element of the event, the Strategy Summit, gave delegates the chance to hear from industry leaders. The high-profile speakers included the CEO of Hong Kong Express Andrew Cowen, and Etihad Airways' Vice President International Affairs Vijay Poonnoosamy.

At the core of Routes Asia are pre-scheduled one-to-one meetings between airports, airlines and tour operators. Malaysia Airports General Manager Airline Marketing Mohamed Sallauddin Haji Mat Sah led the MAHB team which included Manager Airline & Market Development Sarjanisham Darus, Senior Executive Marketing Communication and Services Mohd Faizal Md Haris, Executive Airline & Market Development Muhammad Shaznin Azhar, Executive Airline & Market Development Mahathir Yusof and Executive Business Strategy Salmi Fatiha Mohd Hilmeiy.

Although its own booth was relatively modest, Malaysia Airports commanded a significant presence in the Airline Networking Village, as it had the support of Sarawak Tourism Board and Sabah Tourism, both of whom were promoting the airports and tourism attractions in their respective states. The state of Sarawak was represented by Assistant Minister for Tourism (Sarawak) Datuk Lee Lim Shin, Permanent Secretary for Ministry of Tourism, Arts and Culture (Sarawak) Datu Ik Pahon Joyik and Director of Marketing Division (Sarawak Tourism Board) Benedict Jimbau while Sabah Tourism was represented by Senior Research Manager Angeline Eng Chuan and Marketing Manager Josephine Chai.

The Malaysia Airports team had the additional presence of Turkish partners; namely Aviation Marketing Manager Aytun Demiral and Key Account Executive Levent Sansever from Istanbul Sabiha Gokcen International Airport (ISGIA); one of the international facilities managed by Malaysia Airports Holdings Berhad. ISGIA, Istanbul's premier airport at the crossroads of Europe and Asia was boldly highlighted at the booth. Also present at the Malaysia Airports booth were POS Aviation CEO Woo Kam Weng and COO Mohd Sarley Adle Sarkum. According to Woo Kam Weng, Routes Asia 2017 was well organised, and the time spent at the event was good and productive.

Three days of solid networking, scheduled meetings, and numerous informal connections gave the Malaysia Airports marketing team the opportunity to showcase KLIA and our other international gateways into Malaysia. The delegates from the Sarawak Tourism Board and Sabah Tourism also managed to conduct a few fruitful meetings to attract new connectivity into their respective states.

In total, the Malaysia Airports marketing team met with delegates from about three dozen regional and international airlines, several who are planning to commence flights into one or more of the five international airports in this country. The team was also particularly encouraged by the number of new carriers who expressed their interest in Malaysia.

According to Mohamed Sallauddin, one of the notable achievements for KL International Airport at the event, was to be among Asia's leading airports shortlisted for the Routes Asia Marketing Award 2017 in the 'Over 20 million passengers' Category. All in all, he said, Routes 2017 was an excellent opportunity for input, networking and solid marketing progress, with the MAHB team successfully communicating key messages with selected airlines.

A320neo for SRI LANKAN

Srilankan Airlines has taken delivery of its first A320neo, says Country Manager Malaysia Dilshan Kudahetty, adding that this makes the airline one of the most recent operators of this innovative aircraft. The delivery from Airbus' facilities in Hamburg is the first of a fleet that will grow to six A320neo aircraft.

Srilankan's A320neo is configured for 150 passengers in a two-class cabin layout with 12 business class seats and 138 economy class seats. Srilankan Airlines and Airbus embarked upon a long term, strategic partnership in 1993 when the airline began operating the A320 and A340. It has since grown to be an all Airbus operator with a fleet of 24 Airbus aircraft.

Malaysia General Manager Malkit Singh says that the national flag-carrier of Sri Lankan has just increased capacity on its Kuala Lumpur route with the use of larger Airbus 330 aircraft for one of its double-daily flights. A second A330 will be added in coming months to cope with the encouraging seat take-up from Malaysia. For ticketing and enquiries, please contact 03-2697 2100.

PRIMA AIR signs with Berjaya

Prima Air, a member of diversified Halim Mazmin Group, has entered into a partnership with Berjaya Hotel & Resorts (BHR) to provide charter-flights between Subang Airport and Redang Island.

Under the partnership, BHR will be able to charter flights for its guests to The Taaras Beach & Spa Resort, under special travel packages. Guests will be able to make bookings online either from BHR or Prima Air. They will be flown to the island using Prima Air's Cessna Grand Caravan EX 208B turboprop aircraft, which can seat up to 10 persons.

"We are proud to be a part of this venture. In the past, Berjaya Air used to provide flights to Redang Island. We are now filling in the void to provide vital air-connectivity to this beautiful island," said Prima Air Director of Business Development Irman Abdul Shukur.

He explained that Prima Air offers point-to-point air-travel to destinations that commercial airlines do not serve, and charter-services for individuals or small groups who want to fly on their own schedules.

Hanley Chew, CEO of BHR, added that they are in talks with Prima Air to provide additional charter-flights to other BHR resorts, and potentially between Singapore's Seletar airport and BHR's resort in Tioman.

CHINA AIRLINES awards Travel Agents

It was a time of fine dining, elegant surroundings, convivial conversation, and an outstanding time of fun and celebration when China Airlines hosted its Travel Agents Award Dinner Night at the stylish New Shanghai Restaurant Holiday Inn Express in Kuala Lumpur recently.

Malaysia Branch General Manager Robert Chin thanked the guests for their strong support throughout the year, and said that it was due to their contributions that the Taiwan-based carrier recently introduced additional morning flights from KLIA. He added that this year, China Airlines celebrates its 50th year in Malaysia; consolidating its position as one of the most established foreign airlines in this country.

EVA AIR launches Bad Badtz-Maru jet

EVA Air latest 'Travel Fun Jet' is getting rave reviews from happy passengers, says Eva Air General Manager Malaysia Joe Huang, who explains that the trendy airline is introducing more characters and creating a new edition of its popular Sanrio-family aircraft. The aircraft is the world's first starring the naughtily charming Sanrio character, Bad Badtz-Maru on international routes.

The airline is flying the latest in its collection of specially-painted planes on Taipei-Fukuoka and Taipei-Seoul routes, with Bad Badtz-Maru liveried aircraft soon scheduled for wider international service. EVA's Badtz-Maru Travel Fun Jet is an Airbus A330-300 configured for 309 passengers, 30 in Business Class and 279 in Economy.

Bad Badtz-Maru is one of the Sanrio family's most popular characters. Different from Hello Kitty's sweet image, Badtz-Maru is naughty in a charming kind of way. The new livery captures Bad Badtz-Maru in action, wearing his backpack and sprinting to the nose of the plane, ahead of his best friends. With hats, a camera, snacks and other holiday necessities, Bad Badtz-Maru and friends are ready for a relaxing, laughter-filled vacation aboard EVA.

Complementing its new Sanrio-family livery, EVA has designed more than 30 inflight service items and cabin amenities, including Bad Badtz-Maru pillows, slippers, headrest covers, playing cards, meal boxes, postcards, safety-cards and disposable hand-towels. All items are part of the airline's dedicated program to make the flying experience fun for passengers.

EVA and its Sanrio family jets have been popular among passengers all over the world since it launched its first generation of Hello Kitty Jets in 2005. In 2016, the Daily Mail recognized EVA's specially-painted aircraft among the world's best liveries and Global Traveler Magazine awarded the carrier a special "Leisure Lifestyle Award for Outstanding Customized Service," recognizing it for "going beyond what is expected" and "doing something extraordinary."

These new features provide the ultimate customisable travel experience that enables passengers to create an environment that suits their own unique needs. "A JOB I WAS MEANT TO DO, AND THE PLACE WHERE I BELONG!"

A globe-trotting airline manager returns to his roots.

Interview with Aminuddin Ab. Hamid
Sales Manager
Saudi Arabian Airlines

"Aminuddin was precise in his expectations, had a good knowledge of the local aviation market and excelled in marketing skills", states an Airline General Sales Agent in Jakarta. "He was respected in the Indonesian travel-industry." An Australian Travel Agent has a different perspective. "Gregarious, amiable, outgoing! You could have mistaken him for a true-blue Aussie salesman – he got on very well with the chaps down here. A real fun guy!"

The opposite view comes from Malaysian Tour-Operators. "Aminuddin Ab Hamid? He is a sincere professional whom we trust with our pilgrimage packages. He is a good family man with a great respect for the Arab Islamic culture", says a Bumiputra manager. A female industry-colleague in another company agrees. "That man is very loyal to Saudia airline and his airline boss; he is also very enthusiastic about Saudi Arabia as a destination – not just for religious pilgrimage, but also for business and leisure."

When met in person, Aminuddin Ab Hamid seems to embody all these different and seemingly contradictory characteristics in one effusive bundle of energy. He does come across as a strongly sociable and genial character, intense and vivacious. His professional resume' is certainly impressive. With stints in international airlines, a tourism board, an airline GSA and an advertising agency, he holds certificates in aviation from courses he has attended in places as diverse as London, Miami, Rome, Cairo, Singapore, Jakarta and Kuala Lumpur.

He is most enthusiastic, however, when talking about his current employer, Saudi Arabian Airlines, where he has worked for nearly eight years. Also known as Saudia, the national flag-carrier of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia is based in Jeddah, with secondary hubs in Riyadh and Dammam. The airline is the third-largest in the Middle East in terms of revenue, and operates domestic and international scheduled flights to over 120 destinations in the Middle East, Africa, Asia, Europe and North America.

Saudia is a member of the Arab Air Carriers Organization. It joined the globally-renown SkyTeam airline-alliance in 2012. Saudia is one of the world's leading Sharia-compliant carriers, with no alcohol or non-halal items served and all crew dressed in stylish uniforms in accordance with Islamic standards. It has a modern fleet of 129 aircraft, including some of the most advanced wide-bodied Boeing and Airbus jets available.

An intriguing facet of this award-winning airline is that, among the glittering phalanx of awards and accolades it has garnered over the years, are awards given in recognition of its compassionate and caring efforts towards its passengers with Special Needs. In keeping with the gentle side of its religious identity, Saudia has won awards for its special amenities for autistic, deaf, and visually-impaired passengers, as well as those with specific dietary requirements due to medical conditions.

"See? That's the beauty of this airline and this country!" exclaims Aminuddin. "There is so much more than meets the eye. Saudi Arabia is globally-famous as a pilgrimage destination, but most folk aren't aware that it is also a very attractive commercial nation abounding with business opportunities, and a gorgeous tourism destination with centuries of rich culture, and amazing places of stunning natural beauty. You have to see it to believe it!"

He gets even more animated as the conversation reverts back to the airline he works for. "Many people don't realise that Saudia is an excellent choice for world-class travel to destinations across the Middle East as well as to Europe. Connectivity is excellent and transit times are convenient. I believe it is high time for Malaysian business leaders and leisure-travellers to take a fresh look at this airline!"

He continues his enthusiastic spiel, his tone softening with respect when he mentions his current County Manager. "You know, my boss is one of those wonderful Saudis with a rich spiritual and cultural ancestry. It reflects in the way he does business and conducts himself. The people are another reason why I really enjoy working with this airline. Of course, I have always loved the aviation industry; it matches my personality and skills-set so ideally, it almost seems this is a job I was meant to do."

"I am especially grateful to Saudia for posting me back to Malaysia. I have been globe-trotting for much of my professional life, and it is so good to be back in my homeland. Working in various parts of Australasia and the Middle East has been excellent, but there is really no place like home. It is wonderful to meet old friends again, and to have my family with me. I guess I am truly blessed. I work for an airline I really love, I am in a job I was meant to do, and I am in the place where I belong!"

DAVID BROMLEY

“Paint was my saviour.” - David Bromley

BY CHEE SUE ANNE

BACKGROUND

Born in 1960, in Sheffield, England, to a Dutch mother and an English father, Bromley went to Australia in 1964, a Dutch English boy in a new frontier.

“I was always an outsider, yet I loved it and still do. It was the sun, the surf, and my rough and tumble crew of mates that built the rebel in me,” Bromley stated.

After many years in the twilight zone – out of work and out of reality – David, in his mid-twenties found art through clay, and then through paint.

“Paint was my saviour and art is (apart from love of my family) my passion,” he said.

And his fervour has garnered him profound success, from granting him the opportunity to re-imagine and recreate key works of the venerable master artist, Charles Blackman, one of Bromley’s childhood heroes, to being one of Australia’s most eminent and commercially popular artists. His artworks are among the most saleable in the country, a notable accomplishment by this prolific artist.

For Bromley, it has always been ART, LOVE, family, and work, work, work.

“At 56, I am young and have a determination to grow, to seek, to challenge,” he added.

ARTWORK

Over the past 20 years, Bromley's artworks have garnered widespread acclaim and notoriety in Australia and internationally. He has exhibited on nearly every continent including Asia, Europe, Africa and America.

Bromley's artworks revolve around three distinct themes: the first, being nude female portraits, the second, his children series, and third, his exploration of the world as we know it. His artworks portray his unique style of painting where he explores various mediums that result in whimsical fruition. Bromley's work is enduringly figurative, daringly coloured and executed with a graphic intention that is both striking and memorable.

Images of childhood thrive in Bromley's collection, carrying us back to the land of lost content, to a world of action, dreams, of energy and reverie, of present pains and future hopes. They are direct and immediate in their appeal – like children. They are mysterious and allusive and indirect – like children.

Bromley's routine has extended to significant work in sculpture, creating in both bronze and resin to bring to life the characters imbued within his paintings. Through most of his sculptures, Bromley captures the playful and carefree essence of being children and their spirited shenanigans.

EXHIBITIONS

David Bromley has collaborated with countless product brands, celebrities, fashion lines, and of course galleries, producing fine works that add vigour to his portfolio. The world is no stranger to Bromley's art. His works have hung on walls and graced the rooms of esteemed galleries, from LA to Singapore and all the way to Xia Men, China.

A mobile stage built in Sydney alongside Design EX, Potato Head Folk Singapore housing the creative works of Bromley & Co, and collaborating with Guerrilla Atelier, LA for an enigmatic fusion of his art with their fashion are just a handful of Bromley's honourable mentions.

Besides all that, Bromley has birthed new retail clothing concepts with his paintings for Kookai, designed murals for Sheraton & Rae's on Wategos as well as for Fitzroy Social at Collingwood, collaborated on work with acclaimed artist Charles Blackman in Australia, designed for Wolf Blass, worked multiple times with Dulux, once during their Colour Awards, and the long list goes on. One final mention would be of his contribution of portrait paintings at the LA Women Show, each model displaying their own beauty, style, and grace within each canvas, captured eloquently by none other than David Bromley himself.

An extraordinary artist with down-to-earth work, engaging his audience to relate, to feel, alongside him, through his paintings, through his sculptures.

Tan Sri Azman Yahya - SIC Chairman, Y.B Datuk Seri Johari Bin Abdul Ghani - Menteri Kewangan II, Puan Zahariah Abd Rahman - Senior General Manager - Group Strategic Communications of Petronas, and Dato Ahmad Razlan Ahmad Razali - SIC CEO at the official launch of F1NALE at KLCC.

F1'S FINAL LAP

Malaysia's F1 grand F1NALE.
Be a part of race history.

This is it, all you F1 and motorsports fans! Don't miss your date with history! In this final year of the Formula 1 PETRONAS Malaysia Grand Prix, Sepang International Circuit (SIC) is launching its latest campaign for the race in Malaysia – themed 'F1NALE'.

The Malaysia Grand Prix, first held in 1999, was the birth point of SIC's history as the now worldwide famous Sepang circuit was initially and specifically built to enable Malaysia to host the world's premier four-wheel championship. From that point on, there has always been on-track action that kept racing fans coming back for more.

Chairman of SIC, Tan Sri Azman Yahya, said at the official F1NALE launch at KLCC, "Make no mistake – the F1 event has been a success. F1 has been instrumental in the development not just of Sepang Circuit, but also the Malaysian motorsports industry and the sports tourism sector. The impact of the races has been felt and will continue to be felt in the years to come as it has placed Malaysia prominently on the global map."

Along with title sponsor PETRONAS, SIC has also gone above and beyond just hosting races at a circuit. It has helped nurture young local talents as can be seen with the introduction of Jazeman Jaafar in GT racing and Nabil Jeffri in the GP2 Series.

"PETRONAS is honoured to have the opportunity to host the PETRONAS

F1 cars on display

A walk down F1 memory lane

Roadshow for the final F1 race in Malaysia

Malaysia Grand Prix and a rewarding partnership with SIC. On behalf of PETRONAS, I wish SIC the best in chartering your next move and in ushering new milestones for our beloved country, Malaysia," said Zahariah (Liza) Abdul Rahman, Senior General Manager, Group Strategic Communications PETRONAS.

For this finale, Malaysia will be hosting the 15th leg of the F1 races this year - a breakaway that started last year from its customary second race in the calendar. There is a packed schedule of activities to pay homage to Formula 1 in Malaysia and prep the public for exciting times beyond the race.

To celebrate the F1NALE, fans will have one last opportunity to meet their favourite F1 drivers! This includes a special fan forum in the city before the race weekend. Eighteen lucky mini fans, -kids- will have the chance to interview the F1 drivers. There will also be an F1 School Invasion organised in collaboration with iM4U, where the F1 experience is brought to schools in a bid to educate and give them the opportunity to be up close and personal with the F1 car, for one last time.

Three exciting roadshows were drawn up to whet the appetites of F1 fans before the race. The first being at KLCC from April 12 to 16, and the other two in Penang and Johor Bahru in August and September respectively. The attractions will include PETRONAS F1 cars from over the years and a memory lane exhibition for visitors to stroll through for a nostalgic recap of the Formula One races since 1999.

On-track, SIC is collaborating with the Royal Malaysian Air Force for a special tribute to the Malaysia Grand Prix F1NALE, an airshow not to be missed. Also, fans will be given a behind-the-scenes treat with the pit lane walk and to get up close and personal with the drivers through the drivers' introduction parade, fan forum and autograph sessions.

The campaign for the race, taking place from this September 29 to October 1 will feature exciting activities and products to celebrate the 19 Years of F1 in Malaysia. And with the all-time low ticket prices starting at RM58.68 (Hillstand K2) and RM613.68 (Main Grandstand) for those three days, now everyone can experience the F1!

In short, the time has never been better than this year to witness the hottest race on earth. A long-standing monumental impact on racing history here, reaching its grand finale. You'll want to be there.

CHEE SUE ANNE SPEAKS TO

KEVIN VAN DE VEN

From Windmills and Tulips
to Palm Trees and Hor Fun

Tell us about your home country and what do you miss about it.

I was born and raised in the Netherlands, a country of 17 million people and famous for its windmills and tulips. It is a very liberal and tolerant country, perhaps a bit too open-minded at times. What I miss are the dairy products such as yoghurt and cheese, and the bread which are so cheap and fresh compared to that in Malaysia. Whenever I go back for my holiday, I'll enjoy these as much as I can.

What made you decide to start your life in Malaysia?

My decision to move here was to venture out to Malaysia while starting up a family as I am married to a Malaysian. I have always wanted to live somewhere abroad and thus, marrying an Asian has given me this chance.

What was your first impression about this country? Did you experience any culture shock?

My first impression here was as a tourist, where I enjoyed visiting many places of interest all over Malaysia and experiencing the culture as an observer. But when reality kicked in that I would actually be making this my new home and becoming part of this environment, there was a culture shock as I had to let go of some of the habits and practices I had from living in Europe and adopt new behavioural practices here. Of course there was the heat to get used to and the spicy food! Luckily I had great support from my wife, who helped me adjust to the many practices and habits that the Malaysian Chinese culture has.

What was your transition like? Did you face any major difficulties?

There was a language barrier when I first came here, as not everyone in my direct environment spoke English very well and I could not understand any of the local languages. For example, simply communicating with my mother-in-law about household chores was a struggle. Over time, I picked up some Mandarin and a few words of Malay, which made it easier to start a simple conversation.

What is it you love about what you do for a living?

I am a consumer insights consultant. What I like about the company I work for is the flexibility and the informal culture we have. People are respected for what they achieve and not for where they are from. There is the great opportunity to work from home or other locations and we have regular company activities outside work as well, which create a pleasant working environment.

Tell us about your family.

My wife and I have been blessed with two wonderful children, one girl and one boy, both in primary school now. Children grow up so fast, so as a parent you really have to treasure every small step in the process and make sure to be around for the important moments.

We try to make at least one trip to the Netherlands each year to visit my parents and siblings and spend some time with them. We then also visit my grandmother, aged 88, who makes the best apple pie in the world.

What is your typical weekend like in Malaysia?

Weekends are usually reserved for family, friends and church activities. On Saturdays our children have their sports activities and we spend time with friends or family members. Sundays start off at church and then playing badminton in the afternoons. We love Malaysia's favourite spare-time activities as well, such as (window) shopping in one of the many malls and dining with friends and family. There are always new eateries to explore.

What would be your favourite Malaysian food?

My favourite Malaysian food are two home-cooked dishes. My mother-in-law makes fantastic Red Wine Chicken, which is noodles with chicken cooked in her home, using rice wine, and it's a traditional Hock Chew dish. My wife cooks the best Ipoh Hor Fun, one of my all-time favourite street food.

Have you had funny or interesting experiences while in Malaysia?

One of the interesting experiences so far has been visiting a community of the Batek people, the Orang Asli at Taman Negara. Although they have taken on some aspects of a more modern lifestyle, such as that many of them wear jeans and T-shirts, they still largely hunt and gather their own food in the forest using blowpipes and bow and arrow. It is fascinating to see how they live, although tourism has affected their culture.

What are your favourite holiday destinations around Malaysia?

We love to visit Pulau Pangkor Laut, which has a fantastic resort. The villas are comfortable, food is good, service is personalised and every visit is just pure relaxation. To us, it is the best location to fully unwind from daily life. Penang is also one of my favourite destinations for its many famous local delicacies.

What would your advice be for those making a decision to venture into something or somewhere completely new?

My advice would be to first analyse what you aim to achieve and then get informed. There are many useful resources available online nowadays. Surround yourself with people who you can rely on for their support and honest advice.

What is your favourite quote in life?

My favourite quote is one from the Bible: "If God is for us, who can be against us?" – Romans 8:31

It explains that as long as we realise God is omnipresent, all-knowing and almighty and nothing can match His grace, love and glory, we have nothing or nobody to fear in this world.

PULLMAN PUTRAJAYA LAKESIDE

Relieve stress with a lakeside resort stay

BY CHEE SUE ANNE

So much more than just a room and board, Pullman Putrajaya Lakeside creates the perfect weekend getaway for the busy metropolitan.

This resort-like hotel is enormous! An abundance of space and verdure, this mesmerising place exudes a formal yet relaxing vibe. Offering a tranquil and serene ambience, with first-class customer service, it scores high on our charts for top hotels around KL.

INDULGE IN PULLMAN'S OPULENT AND CULTURALLY INSPIRED ROOMS

One of Pullman Putrajaya Lakeside's unique features is its incorporation of cultural elements into its architectural designs, giving this majestic hotel a lot more character. There are four wings within its premises, each uniquely designed, complete with its own open-air courtyard.

We begin with the Lotus wing, a delicate Chinese-inspired block with an oriental touch. Each room is designed like an apartment, having its own king-size bed, kitchen and spacious sitting room. Some rooms come with a Jacuzzi, so be sure to enquire upon booking.

The castle-like exterior of Pullman Putrajaya Lakeside

All day dining at B's

Then there is the Indian-inspired Jasmine wing, donning the iconic dome design. Intricate patterns adorn the four walls of the room, giving it a very cultural tone. If you choose to stay in one of the Jasmine rooms, you'll be pleased to know that it comes with its own bathtub.

The Rafflesia wing was our absolute favourite. This Borneo-inspired block boasts an abundance of wooden structures and traditional tribal markings throughout the wing. So if you prefer open space, fresh air and lots of greenery, ask for a Rafflesia room, because your door will open up directly into the gorgeous courtyard outside. Rooms here have ample space with their own kitchen, bathtub and sitting room, along with a balcony overlooking Putrajaya Lake. An absolute haven for those who've been cramped up in the city for far too long.

SPOIL YOURSELF WITH EXQUISITE FOOD PREPARED BY PULLMAN'S 5-STAR CHEFS

The chefs at B's do not disappoint. You'll be tempted to sit here for hours just savouring their food. Presenting an extensive menu for their international buffet, prized at RM138, some of the dinner highlights are the Prawns with Ginger and Chinese Herbal Soup, Indian Lamb Curry, Malay Asam Pedas Fish Curry and the Western Baked Pumpkin. But truly, the highlight of the ensemble is the dessert bar, complete with selections of Italian gelato and an ABC station. Here is where the talented Chef Zam showcases his chocolate tempering skills. Some of his creations like the Chocolate Cheese Cake and Chocolate Hazelnut Cheese Cake will blow your mind. Fantastically rich, the different flavours blend harmoniously together, creating mouth-watering masterpieces of absolute perfection.

What's more, B's has outdoor seating overlooking the lake, the perfect spot for a hot cup of tea during those cold early mornings.

In the evenings, grab a cold glass of beer at Shimmer Bar, and lie back on the comfy chairs facing the infinity pool to enjoy that gorgeous view of Putrajaya Lake. For those with Platinum card membership, one of your many benefits include a daily invitation for evening cocktails and tapas from 6pm to 8pm. These delicious bite-sized treats will whet your appetite for the scrumptious dinner ahead.

Deluxe room with 1 King size bed

Gazebo overlooking the Putrajaya Lake

LET PULLMAN'S MAGICAL RAMADHAN NIGHTS PUT A SPELL ON YOU

A massive selection for you to explore, the seven stations of glorious food are guaranteed to leave you satisfied and stuffed. Some favourites to look forward to are the fresh seafood, the all-you-can-eat durian station, Turkish ice cream along with a whole symphony of delectable desserts, non-stop live performances and exciting entertainment for the kids! Grab a seat around the open courtyards of Pullman with the majestic Clock Tower in full view, pile your plates up with the exquisite cuisine and enjoy your dinner amidst the green and grandeur of Pullman Putrajaya Lakeside.

The Family Suite

The Resort Café

The Sunway Pyramid Hotel (formerly known as Sunway Pyramid Hotel East) is back and better than ever. It recently underwent a long overdue renovation exercise to offer patrons a breath of fresh air and for them to create new memories.

When we asked the Group Director of Brand Marketing and Communications, Farizal B. Jaafar to describe Sunway Pyramid Hotel in one word, he answered, convenience. He explained that guests may not see the need to leave Sunway

City because it has everything that tourists as well as locals look for, under one big umbrella. Sunway Pyramid Hotel is conveniently tucked between Sunway Resort Hotel and Spa and Sunway Clio Hotel, forming a triad of Sunway's leading hotels.

ACCOMODATION

Post-renovation, the rooms emanate grandeur amid simplicity. The management of this establishment took into account that the majority of their patrons travel with families and sometimes extended families and voilà, The Family

Suite. This suite comprises 3 beds - one king and two queen beds plus two bathrooms, perfect for a Full House-like family. This way, family members can spend precious time with each other, without being confined by connecting rooms.

Sunway Pyramid Hotel presently offers four room variants for clients to choose from, the Deluxe room, Deluxe Park View Room, Deluxe Executive Room and Family Suite. This hotel will soon offer the Family room which is scheduled to open its doors in May.

Breaking from the yardstick of cool tones in hotels, the interior of the rooms at Sunway Pyramid Hotel portrays bold, vibrant colours of red and orange on its carpet and walls, complemented by hues of grey for a dash of warmth and comfort. The fearless look is varnished by enhanced in-room facilities and technology upgrades for a convenient and fuss-free stay. Above all, our stay in Sunway Pyramid Hotel was a haven from our hectic cosmopolitan lives.

We will let you in on a secret; the perks of staying at Sunway Pyramid Hotel is that it shares facilities such as the swimming pool and gym with Sunway Resort Hotel and Spa. To paint you a picture, patrons pay for a 4.5-star hotel and enjoy the facilities of a 5-star hotel. Need we say more?

DINING

Look no further for a dining experience that will knock your palate off. Strategically nestled between Sunway Pyramid mall and Sunway Resort Hotel and Spa, your eyes will sparkle with excitement from the extensive food and beverage outlets that besiege you. The diverse food and beverage outlets offer guests an array of local and international favourites. At Sunway Pyramid Hotel, Taste Enclave, located at the lobby level of the hotel, offers an exciting culinary landscape of 11 specially-selected eateries and three mini restaurants. The myriad of offerings is pledged to keep you satiated throughout your stay.

Throughout our stay, The Resort Café, situated comfortably under the Sunway Resort Hotel and Spa's roof became our favourite culinary destination in the Sunway City township. It is an all-day dining restaurant under the wings of esteemed Chef Parthiban, that presents a wide range of a la carte specialties, chefs' signatures and buffet spreads of flavourful Malaysian, Asian and regional favourites. The international selection includes Middle Eastern and Western dishes. We took a special liking towards the Middle Eastern cuisine from Chef Ala'a Ali's culinary skills. Subsequently, to end the day on a sweet note, we walked over to The Lobby Lounge for a selection of libations, snacks and light entertainment; a splendid way to end a night, in our opinion.

MANDARA SPA

Transcend into a world of ultimate relaxation at the Mandara Spa. It offers a sundry of treatments, including Mandara aromatherapy massages, wraps, facials, scrubs and baths using the purest and highest-quality essential oils and ingredients, topped off with leading skincare technologies from Elemis spa therapies.
